Regulatory & Corporate Compliance Management

Managing risk across your extended enterprise with Archer

In today's complex regulatory environment, governmental and industry bodies frequently make changes to laws, regulations and industry requirements. Staying abreast of the large and growing number and variety of regulations that your organization faces can be a daunting task. From industry regulations to federal, state and local laws to data privacy mandates, organizations are compelled to establish processes for identifying regulatory requirements and implement measures and suitable processes to maintain compliance.

The growing amount of regulatory data coming in from a variety of sources and an increased focus on the processing of personally identifiable information (PII) makes it difficult to identify, prioritize and respond to issues that impact your business. Departments, business owners or team leads often must create unique ways to address policies and meet the regulatory obligations required to run their organizations.

The resulting proliferation of spreadsheets, emails and data repositories spread across the organization to track compliance efforts contributes to a lack of coordination and accountability among the many different stakeholders.

Many times, different policies and regulations require business units to provide control attestations that are the same or similar across multiple compliance initiatives. As priorities change and resources stretch, staff begins to tune out and ignore these compliance requests, which further exposes the organization to an increased risk of fines and penalties due to noncompliance. These disconnected processes impact the organization's productivity as team members spend time chasing down information to meet various organizational policy and reporting requirements. Ultimately, these inefficient processes steal valuable resources away from the strategic initiatives that are critical to growing and sustaining the business.
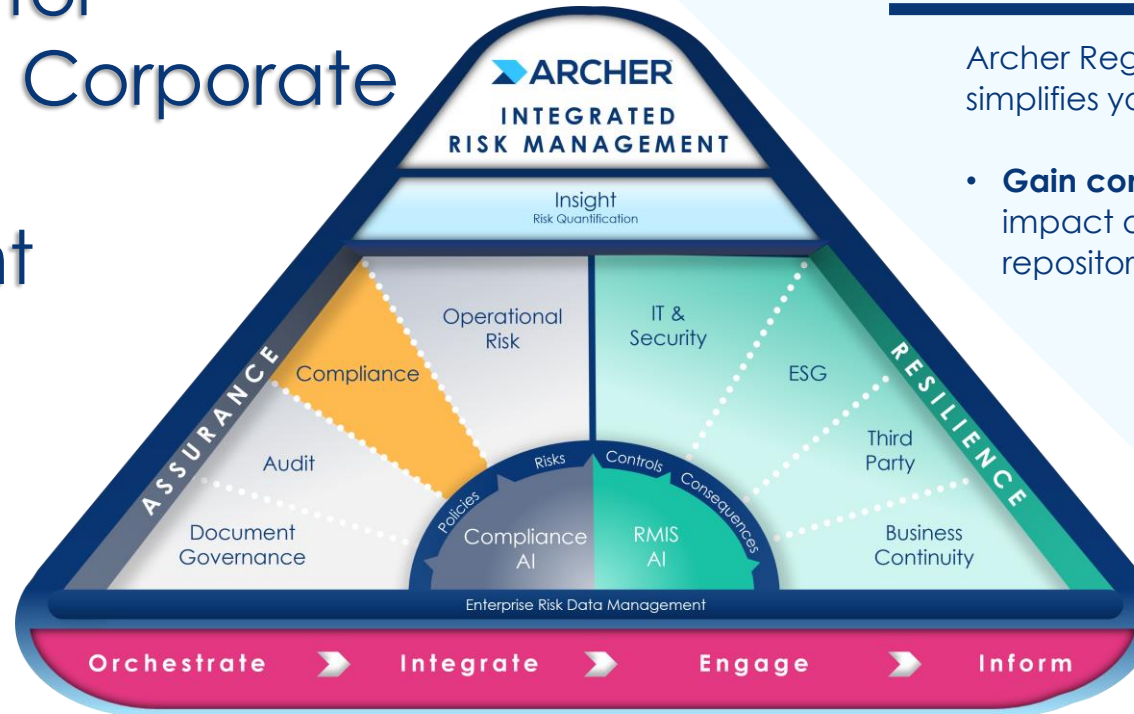

Regulatory & corporate compliance management needs to use a risk-based approach and have control of the complete audit lifecycle.
